Dr. Lohre:

My name is Mr. McNulty and you saw my son back in July on a Friday evening when I brought him in for an X-ray. He had been limping a little on his left leg for a couple of days and I thought there was something wrong with his foot. You indicated it could be anything from his foot to his hip. After examining him you determined it was likely his lower leg. Although the X-rays didn't really show much, you thought there might have been something on his fibula. You suggested I take him to Children's so a pediatric radiologist could look at it. Sure enough, she thought there was the slightest fracture and we went back Saturday morning to have a cast put on. He was in it for 3 weeks and did just fine.

I just wanted to let you know how much I appreciate your attention to detail and thoroughness. There sure didn't look to be anything there when I was looking at it with you but I'm sure glad you suggested we get it checked out further.

Although I hope I don't have to use your facility again, I'm glad it's there.

Thank you from our family.

Sincerely,

Mr. McNulty
